This is built the same way as other projects up to this point. Run "make" on the base directory and then run "make test" to run P5.java on the input files. Test.egg should not print any errors while typeErrors.egg should print out a lot of errors. Every type of error should be printed from this test file.